

UCF Student Diversity & Inclusion Impact Award

What is it?

The University of Central Florida's Office of Diversity and Inclusion presents an award to one student each year at the Valarie Greene King Diversity Breakfast. The deserving student may be nominated by a University of Central Florida faculty or staff member and will be selected by a predetermined awards committee. Overall contributions to enhancing diversity and inclusion at the University of Central Florida will be considered.

Who is eligible?

Any University of Central Florida student, full or part time, classified as a junior or above is eligible. The student must be in good academic standing (cumulative UCF GPA of 3.0 or above).

Criteria

- Nominee has taken the initiative to be an advocate for diversity and inclusion on campus and/or in the community.
- Nominee has demonstrated leadership by modeling respectful and inclusive behavior.
- Nominee has enhanced diversity and inclusion at the University of Central Florida by assisting with an event, program, or activity sponsored by the university, or by completing four workshops offered by the Office of Diversity and Inclusion. Please email Barbara.Thompson@ucf.edu if additional details are required.

How to nominate a student

The Nomination Form may be completed on the Office of Diversity and Inclusion's website at <https://diversity.ucf.edu/diversity-inclusion-impact-awards/>.
